

Environmental Sciences And CREATE Seminar Series

A Land Use Planning Primer for Environmental Scientists

Beth Schumacher

MCIP LPP, planner for the Eastern District Planning Commission

- An overview of what land-use planning is, and the important role that the environment plays in the process.
- Summarizing trends in city design in North America for the last 100 years, and where development best-practices might be going.
- Discussing where environmental scientists fit into the planning team, and whether planning could be a career path for you.

All are welcome.
